AMWARE CAN TRANSLOAD EVEN WHEN YOU CAN'T

Jacksonville, FL – April 2005: This week Amware's Craftsman welcomed a new client to the Imeson Park facility. The product is paper bags received in high-cube containers. Each container will be transloaded onto flat bed trailer for delivery to their end consumer as their facilities are not set-up for the inbound handling of high-cube containers. The first container-loads of paper packaging product arrived this week and were transloaded or warehoused accordingly.

Rob Doyle, Director of Operations at Amware Logistics commented that "It was a very smooth start-up this week because of the dedicated time and oversight we received by the client's Logistics Coordinator, Melissa Wildeman; we look forward handling this account for the months and years to come". He went on to say, "Amware has abundant experience and resources to assist this new client in the timely execution of their logistics needs. Due to our proximity to the port, our local drayage capability and our excellent warehouse property, we can be very efficient".

Upon completion of the first round of transload shipments, Mrs. Wildeman added the following follow-up: “I must say, the communication and patience that Amware provided was excellent. Working with us on short notice and getting the job done helped [us] succeed with a new customer”.
